The minutes were approved by all team members.

3. Sub-Teams' progress reports:

- Design Team:
  - Toby completed the GUI structure graph.
  - Andros started working on the Photoshop version of GUI design.
  - Ariela wrote the weekly report for the Design Team's progress.
- The Implementation Team had a meeting and decided to learn Android development independently during the weekend. Coding of the app will officially start on Monday 16th November.

4. Any other business:

- a) Some team members still need to upload their research on existing applications similar to ours onto the group page.
- b) The School of Computing Science gave us access to a MySQL database, a mailing list, a repository, and a web page.
- c) Yousaf has emailed the publisher of the student cook book he mentioned on last Friday's meeting but didn't receive a reply yet.
- d) The official name for our app needs to be confirmed before Dragon's Den, there were a few suggestions:
  - Student Munchies
  - Feed The Fresher (FTF)
  - Fresher Foods
  - Student Scrان

- e) App's colours:
  - Toby suggested that the colours could be coordinated according to recipe categories. For example, vegetarian recipes would be green.
- f) Ideas for the app's logo:
  - Yousaf's idea included pieces of food that have different textures intertwined together as if they are solid objects (like a bowl of food).
  - Andros's idea included a student eating a piece of pizza.
  - Other ideas:
    - Using different foods to make up a letter.
    - A lion similar to the one on Newcastle University's logo made out of food.
    - Simply name of the app on a solid background.
- g) Toby volunteered to take care of the database our team will need to store the recipes because he has done some research on it. His idea is to use one column for the whole recipe, but then the next column for the first step of the recipe, the next column for the second step of the recipe, etc.
